

Distinguished Service

The Royal Newfoundland Regiment in the Great War

The opening exhibition for the Provincial Archives at The Rooms concentrates on the Royal Newfoundland Regiment in the First World War. It draws upon the Archives' rich holdings, including the military service records, which provide us with an opportunity to hear the voices of the soldiers and their families. The goal of the exhibition is to stimulate interest in further study of the Regiment.

